Comment Of The Day

WEEKEND CROSSINGS

MR Gerald de Basto's comments on the vehicular ferry in yesterday's China Mail will be widely endorsed. Despite the supplementary service, started earlier this year, cars still have long waits to cross to Kowloon and Hongkong at the weekends. Perhaps they are not as bad as they were, but the point Mr Basto makes about restricting trucks to non-rush hours will be widely supported. It is not a new suggestion; more than a year ago a similar proposal was made by an Unofficial Legislative Councillor in the budget debate. But it still looks the most appealing solution.

The complaint of delays by Sunday motorists is reasonable. Most people observe this day as a holiday. It is the one time in the week that the motorist can take the family out and visit the territories, or if he lives in Kowloon, the popular island beaches. Yet it is then that the ferry is busiest and the crossing most difficult. Many have been put off a weekend jaunt because of this. This therefore requires the ferry company's special attention.

ANOTHER suggestion made by Mr Basto is a good one. That is to put an indicator in Kowloon and Hongkong showing estimated waiting time. There is a further cause of dissatisfaction which rankles with many motorists — and that is the distinction between big and small cars. There is no need for this difference. The only distinctions which should exist are between motorcycles and scooters, cars, small passenger buses and goods vans, and lorries. And in the meantime the company should abolish big and small car queues so that the first to arrive is the first to get aboard.

It is to be hoped that the management of the Hongkong and Yumati Ferry Company is looking for new ways of improving the service. The supplementary ferry was a good idea and it should at least ensure that if no very satisfactory improvement is possible, it is saving the service from worse delays. But it is too long to wait until next year for a second full-time service to remedy matters. The company should take up with trucking companies the question of reducing their weekend trips or restricting them to intervals between the rush-hours. This would make Sunday motoring across the harbour more a pleasure than the tiring, annoying frustration it is today.

The big drought—the reason why

By A CHINA MAIL REPORTER

A huge air mass hovering over the entire area of South China is responsible for the present drought, an Observatory spokesman said today.

Only driving winds could move the mass of warm air and at this stage no immediate relief is predicted.

Farmers are suffering the worst drought conditions ever recorded.

In the last five months since October 1 last to the first of this month only 0.86 ins of rain has been recorded at the Royal Observatory. The average for five months from October to March is 10.42 ins.

Previous lowest figure for the same period was in 1916-17 when 1.63 ins was recorded.

The Observatory spokesman said that the stationary air mass over South China "was extremely unusual."

"There is usually some wind activity from Siberia which sweeps down during the dry season and moves the mass of air along."

"This has not happened and the expected rainfalls have not come," he added.

Professor S. G. Davis of the Hongkong University said that the present dry spell is not particularly indicative of future trends.

"It is very typical of South China's variable conditions," he said.

"Many people come forward with theories that this part of the world is either becoming hotter or drier. "This is not so. Next year may be extremely cold and wet," he added.

Two big factories for New Territories JAPAN-HK TEXTILE MILLS TO BE SET UP

By a China Mail reporter

Two—and possibly three—new textile mills, plan to start up very soon in the Colony, the China Mail learned this morning.

All will be joint enterprises run by Hongkong and Japanese businessmen.

MONEY TO SPARE

Detroit, Mar. 8.

Stephen Krysiak, a 37-year-old factory worker, was the most popular man here yesterday afternoon.

He walked along a street bethelily strewing $100 bills in his path. He shredded other $100 bills into confetti and tossed the scraps at passersby.

Ten blocks and about $13,700 later, off-duty patrolman Norbert Jablonski stopped him, to the obvious dismay of many in the huge crowd which was picking up the money in Krysiak's wake.

Krysiak told police he was "just having fun with my money."

He still had $5,700 in $100 bills plus the shreds of another $500 to $600 in his hands when he was stopped.

Krysiak said he had $20,000 when he started out. He said he took the money from a safe deposit box at his bank because he was worried that something might happen to it.

A bachelor, Krysiak lives with his mother.

Mrs Krysiak told police her son had been under treatment for a nervous disorder.

Police turned Krysiak over to his mother and appealed to persons who picked up money from the streets to turn it in at police headquarters.—UPI.

Ben-Gurion for U.S.

Tel Aviv, Mar. 7.

Mr David Ben-Gurion, the Prime Minister, left by air tonight for the United States where he will have unofficial talks with American leaders and receive an honorary university degree.—Reuters.

The first one, the New Territories Textile Mill Ltd., will be located in Tsun Wan. It will have a total spindleage of 30,000 and several hundred looms.

All machinery will be imported from Japan.

Technicians

About 12 Japanese technicians and management experts have arrived in Hongkong and over ten Chinese employees have been sent to Japan for training.

Covering a total area of 70,000 square feet, the plant will go into production in the latter part of this year.

The second factory, also to be situated in Tsun Wan, will have a capacity of 10,000 spindles.

In both factories, the Japanese interests will hold 40 per cent of the capital while the remaining 60 per cent will be held by Hongkong.

One tenth

The total spindleage of the first two factories, 40,000, is one tenth of the Hongkong total capacity, 400,000.

The biggest Hongkong textile mill has about 37,000 spindles compared with the 30,000 of the New Territories Textile Mill.

A third Hongkong-Japanese textile mill is reported to be under negotiation. The site may be in Kun Tong.

A local manufacturer said these facilities were being set up with the aim of exploiting cheap Hongkong labour and the Imperial Preference system which enables Hongkong to market its products without paying duty in Britain and the Commonwealth.

Ballroom door allegedly set alight

An arsonist is believed to have been responsible for burning the beautifully decorated door of a ballroom in Wanchai early this morning.

At 4.45 a.m. the door of the Silver Dragon Ballroom, 24 Percival Street, first floor, was found burning.

Fire Brigade men found cotton waste and a beer bottle beside the door. The bottle is thought to have contained kerosene.

The fire was put out shortly after by the Fire Brigade.

It was said that "Fai Chai" Chinese today have been causing trouble and one was thrown out by the manager on Sunday night.

THE CUBANS FIND A CLUE!

Havana, Mar. 8.

Cuban officials say they found a detonating device on the wharf, beside the shattered French freighter La Coulbre.

It was picked up by Major Regino Camacho who is in charge of military forces cleaning up the dock area near where the munitions ship exploded on Friday, they said.

Major Camacho said the device was two to three inches in size, was burned out at one end and had a diamond shaped identification mark which could not be deciphered immediately.

Whether the detonating device came from one of the exploding grenades in the ship or alien to the cargo was not immediately known.—AP.

China water for Macao today?

Macao, Mar. 8.

Macao is due to begin receiving fresh water from Communist sources today, according to Chinese reports.

Promptly at noon, these reports said, water would begin flowing into this water-short Portuguese colony through a cross-harbour pipeline from two reservoirs recently completed on nearby Lappa Island.

Chinese businessmen who negotiated with Communist authorities for the water refused today to comment on Hongkong newspaper reports that Macao would pay half a million dollars a year to the Communists.

Mr Pedro Hyndman Lobo, the General Manager of the Macao Waterworks and Mrs Lobo, left Macao on a five-month world tour which will take them to North and South America, Europe and Africa.—Reuters and AFP.

Allegedly gave secrets of British jet to the Russians

London, Mar. 7.

A security service officer told the Court today that a RAF jet pilot told the Russians about the operational performance of a Hawker Hunter jet fighter.

The pilot was Anthony Wright, 25-year-old ex-Royal Air Force jet pilot.

Arrested after his return from Russia last month, Wright appeared in court today charged with communicating to a person unknown in the Soviet Union information which might have been useful to an enemy.

There were two alternative charges — giving information, as an officer, to an unauthorised person and endangering the safety of the information.

UNNAMED WITNESS

An unnamed witness, an officer of the security service, told the court that when Wright was interrogated he said to the Russians a general description of the RAF mobilisation tables which revealed which squadrons were where in peace and war.

The case for the prosecution was that Wright, on his own admission, wrote to the Society for Cultural Relations with the USSR about January 1956 asking for information about the Russian Institute for Photography where he wished to study.

On December 3, 1956, Wright flew to Berlin and next day went to the Eastern sector of the city and made contact with the Soviet authorities.

He also said it was equipped with radar, but did not know what kind.

The security officer said that Wright had admitted he told the Russians that Britain had guided missiles homing on infra-red systems, but explained that he had had no operational contact with these missiles.

The Russians, Wright added, "were interested in everyone he knew in the service—their

The allegation was that while in Russia Wright received 1,000 roubles a month from the Russian Red Cross, a free room and a further 1,000 roubles for teaching.

QUESTIONED

The unnamed witness said Wright admitted when questioned that he told the Russians in writing that the maximum cruising speed of a Hawker Hunter interceptor jet was 35 mach (.85 of the speed of sound) and that its absolute ceiling was 60,000 feet.

He also said it was equipped with radar, but did not know what kind.

The security officer said that Wright had admitted he told the Russians that Britain had guided missiles homing on infra-red systems, but explained that he had had no operational contact with these missiles.

The Russians, Wright added, "were interested in everyone he knew in the service—their background, politics, attitude to socialism and their views on Soviet policy."

He felt obliged to tell the Russians — a certain minimum, but not a certain maximum — to get asylum.

The security officer said Wright also stated: "They were interested in 'black boxes' in bombers, the system whereby altitudes and height are fed into these boxes for calculation of bomb aiming. I knew something about this and I told them all I knew."

HAD PASSPORT

Cross-examined by Mr A. E. Cox, for the defence, the security officer said Wright came to his office quite voluntarily. He was in no sense a prisoner at that time. He had his passport and had himself applied to come to Britain.

"It was quite obvious," asked Mr Cox, "that he was not doing everything he was told in Russia? He was arguing with them about many things?"

The security officer agreed that was so on the information Wright had given. Wright also said he once went to a dance in Russia dressed as Marshal Stalin.

Accused was remanded in custody until tomorrow — Reuters.

Soviet subs for Nasser

London, Mar. 7.

Nine Soviet submarines are now working with the United Arab Republic under President Nasser's control and Egyptian crews have been trained, Mr Ian Orr-Ewing, Civil Lord of the Admiralty, said today.

The number of Soviet submarines based in Albania had increased, he added.

There were now eight there and their shipborne support had been strengthened by a modern submarine tender which was recently seen sailing into the Mediterranean port of Gibraltar, he said.

"I am not surprised at this," he went on.

"What is a little surprising is that there has been so little outcry against this further example of Soviet bases overseas."

Nato's 'shield'

Mr Orr-Ewing, opening a debate on naval affairs, said it was because the Nato "shield" was effective that the Soviet Union was deploying considerable effort to strengthening some of the countries on Nato's flank.

"Their policy has been to provide Soviet instructors, Soviet technicians and Soviet armaments to their satellites and friends. This process is continuing in the naval sphere."

Mr Orr-Ewing estimated at 500 the total number of Soviet submarines which posed a potential threat to the West's supply lines in the world's oceans.

This was more than Nazi Germany ever possessed at the peak of the World War II U-boat campaign and more than eight times the size of the U-boat force with which she entered the war.

UK's A-sub

Britain's second nuclear submarine would be entirely British-built, unlike the Royal Navy's first atomic-powered submarine, the Dreadnought, which is to be fitted with an American propulsion unit, Mr Orr-Ewing said.

The reactor core of the second submarine would be made in Britain and its machinery would be of British design and manufacture, he added.

Mr Orr-Ewing said that both nuclear submarines would be equipped to hunt and kill enemy submarines and surface warships.—All Agencies.

Those bootstraps—they're made in Hongkong!

By OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT

London, Mar. 7.

Hongkong lifted her postwar economy up by her bootstraps.

The Times Colonial Supplement said this in a special article today.

But although it is something that has happened to other countries, Hongkong did it with this difference: "Immediately after the war Hongkong had no bootstraps, she had to make them herself before applying the pull."

The result, the article goes on, has been a mixed bag of success, commendation and vilification.

The barriers are going up. It would be perfectly understandable if the Colony were to conclude after these years of vigour and achievement that it is far better to travel than to arrive."

Hongkong's competition is unfair because it compares effectively and because it is the culmination of inevitable development in this decade of the 20th Century.

Of sweated labour, the correspondent claims "no one would dispute the fact that working conditions and rates of pay are lower than in the Western world"—but there are exceptions, mainly in the textile industry.

Wage rates are below European standards but in terms of the Far East the standard of living of the Hongkong worker is higher than in other countries.

The correspondent asks "if stopping of garment exports to Britain is to be Britain's major contribution to the Colony's post-war economy.

In conclusion, he says that if Hongkong looks back with pride and forward with determination — "and screams a little when her arms are twisted"—America and Europe might well pause and reflect on the virtues of self-help and the frustrations of success.

"If Hongkong has rebuilt her economy, rehoused her refugees by the hundreds of thousands and not overlooked self-criticism, is it not justice (or just plain common sense) that she should find encouragement and not obstruction?"—London Express Service.

Agadir port ready for use soon

OFFICIALS SPEEDING REPAIRS TO RE-ESTABLISH EXPORTS

Agadir, Mar. 7. The port of earthquake-stricken Agadir is expected to be ready for commercial use again within a fortnight, its municipal engineer told reporters today.

The port is located along the north-south Moroccan highway and has been excluded from the cordoned zone where buildings are being disinfected.

In recent years Agadir had become a busy port, handling considerable freight and was a centre for sardine fishing.

Technicians, who examined the installations found that the port was not as badly damaged by the earthquake and accompanying tidal wave as at first feared. Except for dock cranes, repairs can be made quickly.

HEIGHT OF SEASON

Authorities are speeding port repairs because the earthquake came at the height of the season for exporting tomatoes and citrus fruit. Officials had been building up Agadir as an exporting centre in recent years.

In the past few days, some of the cranes have been moved to Casablanca by lorry but there has been some spoiling.

Officials are also hopeful that the industrial section of the city can be repaired. It and the Agadir residential quarter were damaged very little.

Water supplies were re-established today in Agadir.

The United States Air Force today began an orphan airlift of 250 Moroccan children from Agadir to the Moroccan capital of Rabat, about 300 miles to the north.

The American Embassy in Rabat announced that United States official aid to the ruined city and its inhabitants had passed the $1 million ($357,000) mark.

The Moroccan Geophysical Service said today no new earthquakes had been reported to them in the Agadir region since yesterday.—Reuters.

Fighting Indians rebuked by judge

Stafford, Mar. 7. Fourteen Indians, on trial here, were today told by a judge that "pitched battles with bare hands and shovels in the streets of England will not be tolerated."

The Indians were among 16 who appeared on a charge of manslaughter. On the judge's direction two of the 16 were found not guilty and the remaining 14 changed their pleas and admitted causing an affray. They were fined amounts varying between £20 and £50.

When the trial opened last Thursday the prosecution said that two groups of Indians fought a battle in the streets of Walsall, near here.

ONE DIED
Thirty or 40 men took part and one man was so badly injured that he died the next day.

Today the prosecution said that it would be a waste of the jury's time and the public's money to go on with the case in view of the evidence.

The judge told the Indians that they had to learn that in Britain they had to settle their differences peacefully. He pointed out that the Indians had not attacked or injured anyone but themselves.—China Mail Special.

Tony celebrates 30th birthday

London, March 8. Thirty candles flickered on a birthday cake for Mr Tony Armstrong-Jones today.

The birthday cake was the work of chefs at Buckingham Palace, where Mr Armstrong-Jones is staying. It graced the birthday table at Clarence House, Princess Margaret's residence last night. Armstrong-Jones arrived there just on dinner time, driving his own small car.

Since their engagement 10 days ago Tony and the Princess have hardly spent a meal apart.

A WARNING
Along with sackloads of congratulations on Tony's birthday, the Royal Family received a warning.

Said a London evening paper The Star:

"The nation's delighted welcome for the idea of the Princess marrying a commoner would be bitterly mocked by elevation of the commoner to high rank in the peerage."

The paper attacked arguments that unless Mr Armstrong-Jones becomes a duke or a marquess, Princess Margaret's children would be plain Mr or Miss Jones.

"And why not?" it demanded. "We hope they will grow up in a world where honours are earned, not inherited." —AP.

Shrieking women greet Elvis

Memphis, Tenn., Mar. 7. Shrieking women—young and old—greeted Elvis Presley on his return home today.

"Touch my hand, Elvis," screamed women in a crowd of about 100 fans, evenly divided between teen-agers dodging school and grey-haired grandmothers.

Presley stepped from his private railroad car and strolled along the iron fence of the loading platform, grinning and clapping the female hands thrust through the bars.—AP.

New York, Mar. 8. The Actors' Fund blood bank announced that anyone showing up to give a pint of blood at the Astor Hotel would receive a glass of brandy—afterwards.—UPI.

THE STARS GO OUT

Hollywood, Mar. 7. Thousands of film actors, from stars to bit players, were staggered today to find themselves on strike.

The 14,000 members of the Screen Actors' Guild had voted three to one in favour of striking, but they had believed their dispute with the movie-makers would be settled before they walked out.

Now there are fears that if the strike goes on it may force many actors to look for new jobs or to leave Hollywood.

Producer Ross Hunter said the walkout "could well turn Hollywood into a ghost city." "I told the Guild members when they took their strike vote it would be the craziest thing they could do, because the major picture producers would welcome a strike to liquidate and get rid of a lot of dead wood."

'IMMORAL'
Glenn Ford, who heads a group of 150 actors strongly opposed to the strike, called it "immoral."

At the core of the strike is a demand by the Screen Actors' Guild for a six or seven per cent share in the earnings from the sale of post-1948 films to television.

The Association of motion picture producers has refused even to negotiate the issue, which has also caused a seven-week-old strike of the Writers' Guild of America.

A THREAT

The actors' walkout is seen as a threat to the already weakened major studio system.

It will immediately put 5,000 people at MGM, Columbia, Allied Artists, Paramount, Fox, Warner Brothers and Disney products out of work, and could eventually affect 20,000 or more.

Universal International, which signed a contract with the actors last week, will not be affected by the strike, and some independent producers will continue work on films, even on the loss of the major studios. Television film production will not be affected.—Reuters.

W. Germany banned from making atomic arms, Lloyd assures

London, March 7. Mr Selwyn Lloyd, the British Foreign Secretary, said today there was no question of Western Germany making nuclear weapons outside German territory.

A Labour M.P., Mr Arthur Henderson, had asked in the House of Commons why the British Government agreed in the revised 1954 Brussels treaty to the ban on the manufacture of atomic, biological and chemical weapons by the Federal German Government being limited to German territory.

Mr Lloyd replied that the prohibition was in fact a voluntary undertaking.

"It is true it only refers specifically to the territory of the Federal Republic. There was no question then, nor is there now, of a German Government wanting to manufacture these weapons outside Germany," he said.

VOLUNTARILY

Mr Henderson said the British public was led at the time to understand that the Federal Government had voluntarily and absolutely given up its right to make nuclear weapons. That being so, was it intended to amend the Brussels treaty so as to extend the prohibition to territories outside German territory?

Mr Lloyd told him: "I think you must be satisfied with my answer. There was no question then and there is none now of the German Government manufacturing these things on German territory or outside."—Reuters.

Doctors will soon get own radio network

DOCTORS, who are among the most affluent U.S. citizens, will soon get their own closed-circuit radio network—with music and medical information piped straight into their surgeries.

The service, sent out to 50,000 doctors in 10 cities by the Radio Corporation of America, will cost 10 dollars ($23.15) a month.

This is a mere drop in the great bucket of dollars, which constitutes the average American doctor's take-home pay. But the heavy finance for the new network, which will be on the air 15 hours a day, will come from the pharmaceutical companies. They will pay to have their products advertised in bulletins of medical information.

This information is strictly for doctors and will be heard only in the privacy of the surgery. The bulk of the programme will consist of soothing music piped into the patients' waiting-room.

Considering the scale of doctors' fees here, this can be described as a real public service. Rock-bottom minimum fee for a consultation is five dollars ($5), but if the doctor is in the street a specialist, he will charge up to 15 dollars ($25.50).

Patients deserve all the soothing music they will get. For instance, Blue Cross, biggest medical insurance organisation, announced that its premiums will go up 30 to 35 per cent this year—following a 26 per cent increase last year and a 22 per cent increase in 1959.

And what's that funny white oval thing?

"Why, boy, that's an egg."

TWO AMERICANS in every 100 cannot read or write. Most of these illiterates are older Negroes.

SHOESHINE BOYS at Grand Central Station complain that they are losing 30¢ a day in tips because the company they work for has put prices up. The boys still earn £20-£30 a week.

ROBERT RYAN, one of Hollywood's toughest guys, will play Shakespeare opposite Katharine Hepburn this summer for a fraction of the money he can earn in films.

HOLLYWOOD TALK: There are so many small foreign cars around it's been two years since anybody was hit above the knees.

NOTHING like too much exercise for killing off business men, according to Dr. George C. Griffith, heart specialist at the University of California.

He calls excessive week-end exercise "the acceptable American way of committing suicide."

WILLIE MAYES, only baseball-fighter who catches the ball like a cricket, has been hit on the stomach instead of over his head, will be the highest-paid player next season with £600 a week from the San Francisco Giants. Willie is a Negro.

TEENAGE dope-addict admitted he has carried out more than 100 burglaries in New York.

Said Richard Robles, aged 17, a Puerto Rican from the slums of Spanish Harlem: "I needed the money—I pay 45 dollars (£10) a day to my 'connection' (the dope-runner) for 'fixes'."

RIFF, an Atlanta, Florida police dog, got his man the other day. He jumped up and bit a squad car driver.

A LIVE polio virus was dropped on the tongues of 400 newly born babies at Bellevue Hospital, New York, in the biggest immunisation test yet carried out on infants with the Sabin vaccine.

This is the rival to the Salk vaccine, with the difference that the Sabin virus is alive.

It is hoped that the babies will have lifelong immunity to polio.

The Sabin vaccine, invented in America, has been widely used in Russia, but is still in the test stage here.

A NOTICE in the local supermarket says: "Buy our eggs—they're extra fresh." But although eggs are as cheap as they have been at any time in the last 20 years people are eating too few.

Investors and experts are being hired to glamorise the egg.

For one thing, they reckon everyone is pretty bored with that old-fashioned oval shape. Nature's packaging is not instant enough for the modern housewife. Why, you have to break the shell to get at the stuff inside.

The inventors have come up with the instant scrambled egg, which looks like a crackly yellow biscuit. Just add a little boiling water and in less than a minute you have a dish of fluffy-light scrambled eggs.

Soon it is hoped that "instant fried eggs" will be perfected. And maybe 50 years from now children will be saying: "Gran-an, what's that funny white oval thing?"

COUGH MIXTURE I have been taking should have me

INTRODUCING A NEW TWO-SOME

REX HARRISON is dining out and dancing with Tina Turner, whose divorce from shipping man Aristotle Onassis is pending.

It is the talk of the Manhattan social set. They meet after Rex comes off-stage at 11 p.m. But he will soon have his evenings free. The play, "Anouilh's 'The Fighting Cuck,'" folds this week after a two-month run.

And this is what happened to Captain Duane E. Graveline: his muscles became "like dough"; his bones softened; his pulse and blood pressure were out of phase.

Graveline, in a frogman's suit and strapped to a deck-chair, had floated a week in a tank of water.

JUMPING OUT of airplanes will be legal in New York State soon. This is gratifying to the several parachute clubs in the State. Their members have been jumping for years, but technically they are breaking the law.

SKIPPING schoolgirl Colette Yarosh, aged 11, of Baltimore, jumps over her rope 150 times in 30 seconds—five jumps a second. Physical training instructors stand amazed.

going "hic" as well as "hack-hack," according to New York's wild teenage set. It contains codeline, and they say they get "swinging high" when they drink a bottle with a can of beer for a chaser.

SHAKY, groping his face slowly by turning back, an air force doctor "came back to earth" in San Antonio, Texas, after simulating the weightless life of an astronaut for seven days.

chah reaction smash-up, can offer another, swerved, somersaulted and cartwheeled across the track.

Cars tumbled end over end along the steep banking. Others, locked in groups, spun off the track.

The crowd gasped. Even on the motorways—famed for 30-car collisions—it was never like this.

The whole incident lasted 15 seconds. And, amazingly, nobody was killed. Heavy roll-bars saved the drivers, five of whom were taken to hospital with minor injuries.

BRITISH actress Patricia Cuthbert, former B.B.C. TV panelist, had a leading role the other night in Jean Giraudoux's play "Tiger At The Gates" on Channel 13. This is known as the "Intelligent" TV channel. Some of its programmes are almost as good as the B.B.C.'s.

SKIPPING schoolgirl Colette Yarosh, aged 11, of Baltimore, jumps over her rope 150 times in 30 seconds—five jumps a second. Physical training instructors stand amazed.

THE COMMITTEE Six years of toil, and now the spadework's done. The Chairman wears a smile of satisfaction. We may expect, in 1951, a full report of decks cleared for inaction.

In passing WHEN I read of "A new slim look" in exciting whisper-sort colours," little did I think that was the description of a carpet-sweeper. Obviously it will go well with the maddeningly alluring Oriental look, in elephant grey plastic, of the new mowing machine, or the devastating glamour of a streamlined power-plug.

THE setting up of a Water-cress Marketing Board will be welcomed everywhere. Its first task will be to spend £850,000 on buying up surplus watercress.

It will then impose fines on growers who exceed their quota in a period of shortage. It may later on be expanded to take in parsley. By that time it will require larger premises, and there are still a few theatres left to be demolished in the cause of "efficiency."

Functional utilitarianism

THOSE who blow hot soup instead of fanning it with their hands will be almost delicious with joy to know that Dr Strabismus (Whom God Preserve) of Utrecht, in the intervals of preparing the Lunatic for its journey to the Milky Way, has invented a new kind of respirator, it registers, on a neon luminous dial, the cubic content of every breath expelled. A rival sage said: "Nothing more useless has been invented since Tallgrove gave us the gadget which records the weight of the shadow of a mousage on a sundial."

Or, if you prefer it, utilitarian functionalism.

"Your servant, madam"

THE courtesy police, who advise drivers on good behaviour on the roads, are creating a good impression by their old-world manners. One of them who stopped a lady who was careering along on the wrong side of the road bowed low and kissed her hand. She was embarrassed when she said, "You may have the pleasure of the next dance, Romeo."

The Palladium bows to changing tastes

By JACQUES POUTEAU

London. The 50-year-old London Palladium, the world's greatest stage for music hall artists, is to drop traditional variety.

The old-fashioned music-hall show with its succession of individual acts was dead, Mr Leslie A. Macdonnell, the Palladium's new chief declared.

It would be replaced by a streamlined form of variety built around a star and with a theme running through it.

"Straight" variety had its last flicker at the famous theatre near Oxford Circus early last year and was followed by a "produced" variety show called "Starline," in which the acts were linked, instead of separated by curtain falls.

There was a top-line star, "pop" singer Frankie Vaughan, but no theme.

ANTI-FLOOD BARRIER PROPOSED

London, Mar. 8.
Construction of a movable anti-flood barrier on the Thames downstream from London is technically feasible, according to a Government White Paper. Such a barrier sited at Long Reach, near Dartford, Kent, would take six and a half years to complete and would have the limited function of keeping out dangerous surges travelling up the estuary from the North Sea.

Engineering consultants began studying the problem in 1956 as a consequence of disastrous East Coast floods on the night of January 31, 1953.

DEATH ROLL
Then, a combination of exceptionally high tide and wind-blown surge caused the death of 307 Britons. On the same night, more than 1,400 people perished in Holland and Belgium.

The barrier envisaged in the report would keep out a "surge-tide" six feet higher than the level reached on that occasion. It would cost between £13 and £17 million, not including the cost of land.

Its success would depend on an efficient warning system, and while it would give full protection from tidal flooding to all areas upstream of it, it would give no additional protection downstream.

The Government is expected to consult local authorities and river boards before any final decision is taken.—China Mail Special.

Toy prices continue to rise

New York, Mar. 7.
Toys are becoming so expensive that parents are forced to consider their educational value carefully in buying them, a visit to the huge annual toy fair which opened in New York today indicates.

The fair is scattered over three hotels and a number of other buildings and presents the offerings of hundreds of manufacturers from the United States and many foreign lands. Retailers are buying now for next Christmas, although the toy business is far more a year-round affair than formerly. The domestic producers are hoping to increase their record 1959 volume of $1.6 billion—a 14 per cent jump from 1958, while the imports made an even bigger gain last year. Their sales climbed 30 per cent from 1958 to $39.3-million.

Toys costing $125 or more—such as the little gas-powered go-cart autos—are by no means rare at the fair and the number running up to $30 is astonishing.—UPI.

He was speaking at a dinner of the British-American Alumni, attended by American boys spending a year at British schools and by British school-boys who went to America under the same scheme. The Duke said: "It is all very well to talk about Anglo-American relations or relations between any other people. But the thing which matters more than anything else is not to be conscious about it. It is an individual attitude, which you find out as individuals. Our experience is what we have found out quite by ourselves..."—Reuter.

AUSTRALIAN WINES FOR QUEEN MOTHER

London, Mar. 7.
The Queen Mother has received a cabinet of Australian wines to remind her of happy days she spent in Australia.

The cabinet, of Australian blackwood, contained a selection of choice wines, the gift of the Federal Viticultural Council.

The Australian High Commissioner, Sir Eric Harrison, presented the cabinet to the Queen Mother at a ceremony in Australia House.

Sir Eric referred to the gift as "bottled sunshine," and added, "I believe it contains some wines of your own selection."

The Queen Mother said she was "greatly touched to accept this really delightful gift."

"As I sip it, my thoughts will go back to those happy days I spent in Australia."

A crowd outside, mainly Australian visitors, caused a traffic jam in Aldwych and the stand as they watched the Queen Mother's arrival and departure.—China Mail Special.

JACOBY on BRIDGE

OSCAR BROKON of Midland found himself in action against two very well known Life Masters in a recent tournament. His diamond opening and his partner's heart response were perfectly normal but Oscar decided that he would give the experts a touch of high life by bidding two clubs instead of the normal one no-trump. North went to two hearts and now Oscar carried on with a two no-trump call. North raised to three and West opened the five of spades.

Oscar won with the queen and led the king right back. West ducked and now Oscar was ready with the meat axe. He ran off six hearts and the ace of diamonds for game and a top score.

Oscar's two club bid is not recommended for general practice but such psychics do succeed on occasion and this was one of them.

I might add a personal touch to this story. In case any one is under the mistaken impression that life is a bed of roses for players like myself, it happens that I was the unfortunate Life Master who sat West.

★ CARD SENSE ★

Q—The bidding has been:
South West North East
1 ♦ Pass 1 ♥ Pass
2 ♦ Pass 2 ♥ Pass
3 ♦ Pass 3 ♥ Pass
4 ♦ Pass 4 ♥ Pass

7. You, South, hold:
♦ J 3 2 ♥ 10 8 7 4 ♠ 10 6 ♣ 9 5
What do you do?
A—Pass. Two diamonds may be a better contract than one no-trump but your hand is a minimum and you have no singleton.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Instead of rebidding to one no-trump your partner has rebid to two hearts. What do you do now?

First Things First:

GET THE NAME RIGHT!

Two thousand babies are born in Britain every day—2,000 babies who bring with them the same problem that has been facing the Queen and Prince Philip for some time. "What shall we call him?"

Parental choice, linked with general family influence, topical popularity, or just plain likes or dislikes, are the usual reasons for the choice of a Christian name.

The Sputnik...

At Hartley Pool, County Durham, there is already a Cheyenne, in the Rhonda there is an Alfred the Great, on Tyneside an Anthony Eden.

Further afield Baby Jackson was christened Appendicitis in Oklahoma, a Sputnik has been reported from Israel, a Khrushchev from Egypt.

New Orleans opened its name books on one occasion to reveal that some children were really lumbered—Archangel, Caesar, Oll, Delicious, Evil, Elevator, Frisky, Gee-Whizz, Sausage, and Two-bits were among the registrations.

A glance at Britain's form book shows that John and Jane top the list of names of top people born in 1959. It was the same in 1958. And contemporary records way back in the 13th century still have John a hot favourite.

A woman's first name, however, can really give the show away, according to one forecast.

Gertrude, Harriet, Louisa, Emily are about 85 now; Ethel, Mabel and Florence hover between 65 and 75; Blanche, Gladys, Muriel and Violet are in the 55-65 group.

Coming down the scale, in the 45-plus group come Joan, Phyllis, Audrey and Winifred, while in the plus 35's are Beryl, Irene, Pamela and Barbara.

by MAUREEN OWEN

Patricia, Diana, Daphne and Shirley are nearly in the 25 to 35. Marilyn, Deirdre, Carolyn and Jill more modern in the 15 up to 25 age group, while the early teenagers are Anne, Jane, Lucy, Susan and Sarah.

In Britain parents have complete freedom and can make their own choice for the child. The registrar cannot insist even on the officially listed spelling. Only if a name is objectionable will the registrar refuse to record.

It might be a matter of parental pride to name the son and heir Marsden, Blachind, Aloysius, Horace, Ulysses, but names often have unfortunate connotations and schoolchildren can certainly exploit them.

Far better is it to give a child a name that will not embarrass.

Not these!

Steer clear of the fanciful name or the frivolous. Certainly keep away from the film stars (they are invariably acting under different names in any case) and as far as girls are concerned you are automatically "dating" them.

If the surname is lengthy, then shorten the first name.

Lengthen the first name. Always remember that while it is an excellent potential investment to name the child after the grandparents, that investments have a habit of going the wrong way and the child might not agree with your choice later.

Main consolation in the name game, however, comes with the knowledge that the problem is not altogether insoluble—you can always change later in life, by custom, by declaration, by deed poll.

BRITAIN'S YOUNGEST WORKING MAN...

THE baby with a pair of soulful eyes and chubby cheeks has never been in such demand.

And for the mother who is photogenic, a pat on the cheek is a sure way to manage her child, owing a baby is the best way to get into the modelling game.

Merrill Colebrook, blonde, 21, married to an advertising man and the mother of nine-month-old Christopher, lives in a Bayswater flat. She was a model before her marriage. Now the Colebrooks, mother and son, are a top-flight model team.

"The advantages," said Merrill, "is that unlike other working mothers my child comes with me wherever I go. Then, of course, there are the two sets of feet. Two guineas an hour for me and two guineas for Christopher. "Some of the money I put aside for when he's older, and some of it goes on family expenses. I think Christopher will be quite proud when he knows he once paid the gas bill at five months."

Last word from photographer Terence Donovan: "There's a big demand for natural-looking child models."

"We want children smiling, sleeping, screaming, walking and talking. Sometimes the noise in the studio is deafening. Just before taking the picture I shout SHUT UP at the top of my voice. "That's when you get that expression of sweet bewilderment."

A GREAT DAY for THE WELSH

THE excitement and pleasure of Princess Margaret's engagement is still with us all and the fact that her fiancé, Mr Antony Armstrong-Jones, was born in Wales, gave this year's annual St David's Ball an added fillip when it was held last Tuesday night at Repulse Bay Hotel. A large crowd was present and a good time had by all.

At the official table, decorated with bowls of lovely daffodils, the Eye spotted Sir Robert and Lady Black with the President, Mr and Mrs G. R. Pickett, Lt.-Gen. Sir Edric and Lady Bastyan, the acting Chief Justice, Mr Justice J. R. and Mrs Gregg, Air Commodore and Mrs P. L. Donkin, Commodore and Mrs A. R. L. Butler, Mr and Mrs J. L. Fox, Mr and Mrs J. L. Marden and the Rev. and Mrs W. D. E. Williams.

The shield of Glamorgan, which is the county of the President, Mr G. R. Pickett, was hung over the official table whilst those of the various other counties of Wales, were hung around the ballroom.

The old tradition of the eating of the leek was varied this year. Not only did a Taffy, Mr G. Davies, gobble up his, but the President offered one each to the Presidents of St. Andrew's Society, St. George's and St. Patrick's.

On Wednesday there was a good attendance at the Jockey Club's second mid-week meeting and the night was on youth.

Miss Wendy Black, the very attractive daughter of Mr and Mrs Donald Black, was chosen this year to be given the "purses" by Mr H. K. Hunt, the jockey who rode Polaris, the winner of the Ladies' Purse event.

Miss Black, who wore a pale blue suit, bound in darker blue, in turn presented Mr Hunt with a cigarette case and then they were both the guests of the Chairman of the Jockey Club, Mr D. Benson at a luncheon party.

The Eye also spotted Mrs J. D. Macgregor in navy-blue, Mrs A. R. L. Butler in a grey-green light wool ensemble, and Mrs A. H. Potts in a black suit and hat, who was very happy over the success of their party, Missus J. in the Valley Stakes.

at the keyhole

We noticed a red and white spray of flowers pinned on her lapel (which are their racing colours) when she led Missus J. in.

On Thursday evening, the Blue Funnel Line and the Master of Gunung Djati held a cocktail party on board for a large number of local residents.

As this Eye had to peek through a porthole, it was not altogether easy to keep the scene in focus, but we did spy Mr and Mrs Duncan Black, her leaving just returned from the PATTA get-together in New Zealand, also Mr and Mrs S. A. Tremlett—before we fell off the hawser and were escorted on to the launch thinking longingly of that romantic boat deck.

Friday night saw the annual dinner dance of the Captain, committee and members of the Ladies' Section of the Royal HK Golf Club held this year at the Paramount. It was very well attended and a huge success. The foyer of the restaurant was decorated with lots of very clever, subtle black and white sketches of the leading ladies, also a few men, just to show no ill-feeling. These were much admired by the large number of guests.

Mrs "Hobbie" Watkinson was a delightful Captain and hostess in a long grey brocade sheath frock. Notice in her party Mrs Garry Harrison, a very popular past captain and most active committee member, wearing a lovely red dress, and Mrs Hiddy Perkins in a strapless black cocktail number.

Others noticed were Mrs Henry Heath who was very attractive in black, Mrs Johnny Shoemaker also in black, Mrs Lee Robinson, whose golf is the envy of every associated, wearing a long leaf-green taffeta dress, Mrs John Wal, wearing a lovely red cheongsam, embroidered in silver, Mrs Willie Wu in a smoky blue satin cheongsam, Mrs Arthur Hodson, a pretty figure in classic white satin, and Mrs H. M. G. Forsgate in a deep-cream, long brocade model.

The Eye also spotted Mrs Maitland, Mrs Derek Harrison, Miss Anne Dixon-Leach, Mrs Duncan Fraser, Mrs George Carter, Mrs Vicky Waters, Mrs George Watson, Mrs Alex Pearce, Mrs Duggie Smart, Mrs J. D. Clarke, and Mrs J. L. Marden. Of course all the husbands were present too, but this being essentially the ladies' big night the men took second place, which doesn't happen very often.

We peeped into St John's Cathedral on Saturday afternoon when Miss Carolyn Anne the attractive young daughter of Mr and Mrs G. K. Lardard, was married to Mr P. M. Mayne, of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank.

It was a very pretty wedding, the bride radiant in white, charmingly lace, and her maids wearing pastel tinted tulle. The reception was held in the lovely garden of Mr and Mrs Michael Turner's Peak home where the guests drank a toast to the happy couple, and wished them health, wealth and good luck.

Until next week, cheerful chums.

Let's Eat

by IDA BAILEY ALLEN

LUXURY LINER'S EXOTIC LUNCHEON

"THE luncheon was excellent, Madame," remarked the Chef, settling down in a big chair to tell me about it. "It was held aboard a freighter of the Belgian Line, which has docked in New York."

"We ate in the dining salon which is reserved for the ship's officers and supercargo and a few passengers."

"What was the menu, Chef?" I asked.

UNUSUAL MENU

"It was most unusual, Madame," he replied. "First, hors d'oeuvre varieties including stuffed tomatoes on the half-shell, which our readers will like."

"Following this was a delightful soup, creme Bruxelles. Then came sliced turbot, a European fish much like our whitefish, which was broiled in butter and served flaming. The entire was butter-roast chicken served with braised Belgian endive—delicious!"

"For dessert, we had omelette Siberienne."

"Which must have been a kind of baked Alaska?"

"Right you are, Madame. After this we enjoyed cafe creme, and cigars."

"Here is a birds-eye view of the tomato hors d'oeuvre. This interesting assortment of hors d'oeuvres may be used as the first course for a luncheon or dinner, or use one or two kinds any time for the family."

Select medium-size ripe tomatoes. Cut out the stem ends. Scoop out the tomatoes in half. Scoop out the centers, leaving the shells. Save the scoopings and add to a tomato vegetable cocktail or soup.

Dust the shells with salt, pepper and a little monosodium glutamate. Fill with 2 or 3 salad ingredients selected from the following: Minced canned salmon or tuna, green olive, celery,

A Long Winter's Nap

—Pixie O'Scowl Tells A Story On Pixie McSnooze—

By MAX TRELL

"NOW don't talk to me about McSnooze!" said Pixie O'Scowl. "He's the laziest, sleepest, snoriest, nappiest, laziest (I said that already, didn't I?) Pixie that ever lived."

"Did I ever tell you about the time when he went to sleep on the back of a Caterpillar?" Knarf and Knarf the Shadows with the Turned About Names, were sitting on a wooden bench near the door of O'Cheer Hall where the Pixies lived. Pixie O'Scowl had come out looking for it was their turn to go shopping. But Pixie McSnooze was nowhere to be found and this is what started Pixie O'Scowl complaining to them.

Skips the work

"He always disappears, when there's work to be done," Pixie O'Scowl grumbled. "Well, I guess he'd better be going."

"Just a minute," Pixie O'Scowl exclaimed Knarf. "Eh! What's the matter?" asked Pixie O'Scowl, looking around in annoyance.

"Knarf, Pixie O'Scowl dear," said Knarf. "You asked us if we had heard about the time that McSnooze went to sleep on back of a Caterpillar. We'd like very much to hear it, wouldn't we Knarf?"

"Of course we would," said Knarf.

"Don't bother me," said Pixie O'Scowl. "Haven't got any time now."

Pixie O'Scowl made a dash but Knarf's hand shot out and seized him.

Caught fast

"Now Pixie O'Scowl dear," she said in her gentlest voice, "you mustn't be rude, you know. We want to hear about how poor Pixie McSnooze went to sleep on a Caterpillar."

He went sound asleep on the Caterpillar's back.

But, at that moment, Pixie O'Scowl, and Knarf and Knarf all had a surprise. For there, whistling and singing, came Pixie McSnooze down the path, looking bright as a whistle and carrying a basket over his arm filled with groceries.

"I've done all the shopping already," he said to the astonished Pixie O'Scowl.

"And so for several months, maybe even longer, McSnooze and the Caterpillar both went on sleeping. I gave up even looking for him any more. I thought he had gone off to the other side of the world."

The awakening

"Then," continued Pixie O'Scowl, "an extraordinary thing happened."

"Suddenly, one day, the cocoon split open and out came no, my dear, not a Butterfly—but my lazy, sleepy, snoozy, nappy, lazy (I did say that before, didn't I?) brother, McSnooze. The Butterfly came out a minute later."

"Just imagine anybody taking a nap for six months!" "I hope he isn't doing that now," said Knarf.

"He probably is!" said Pixie O'Scowl.

FOOT-NOTES FROM AMERICA

New York.

The American public is well-heeled. They buy 19 pairs of shoes every second. This adds up to about 3½ pairs of shoes a year for every adult and child in the country.

One pair, worn steadily for 3½ months, takes a total pausing weight of 73,500 tons—more than the weight of the largest aircraft carrier afloat.

New shoes for teen-agers shod buttons and bows and turned to the tailored look. The shoes have stacked but less-flared heels and lowered toplines. Heels are low in casual styles but higher in dress pumps—about an inch and a half high. The tapered toe's popularity is challenged by oval and square toes in both dress and casual shoes.

"I've done all the shopping already," he said to the astonished Pixie O'Scowl.

Callover on Lincolnshire and Grand National

London, Mar. 7.
Lindrick and Wyndburgh remained favourites at the Victoria Club callover here tonight on the Lincolnshire Handicap and the Grand National Steeplechase. But while Lindrick was unchanged at last week's price of 10 to 1 for the Lincoln, Wyndburgh came in two points to 8 to 1 for the National.

There was no change at all in the Lincoln front-runners, but highly-weighted Sovereign Path hardened from 25 to 1 to 20 to 1, Middle Watch from 25 to 1 to 20 to 1, and Abbot's Star came into the list at 33 to 1.

In the Grand National, Merryman shed four points to reach 12 to 1, Green Drill came in at 33 to 1 and the Irish-trained Knockdown was quoted at the same odds.

Prices at the callover were:

David, 19—that's him on the left—works for an oil company, has already qualified for the Olympic 200 metres with 21.4 secs, is now after a 100 metres standard time too.

Ron, 25—he's on the right—is a time and motion study man for an Ifford firm, has already qualified for the Olympic 100 metres with 10.4 secs, and is now after a 200 metres standard.—London Express Photo.

Army cross-country champion

London.
Potential Olympic Games steeplechase runner, L/Cpl Bert Grubb, of the 14/20th Hussars, stationed in Berlin, is the new Army cross-country champion. He won the title at Crookham (Hants) to add it to his BAOC championship.

He is also the Army 3,000 metres steeplechase champion and record holder. His time of 31 mins 40 secs, was eight seconds better than the second man home, the famed Cpl John Snowden, 3 Training Regt Rb. Pta. Arthur Taylor, 6 Bn RAOC, was third, a further 33 seconds in arrears.

The holder, Cpl Mike Corcoran, 1 Bn Royal Cheshire Regt has had a 14 week lay-off with foot trouble and did well to finish fourteenth.

The Cheshires, however, easily retained the team title they won for the first time last year, with 90 points, from 1 Parachute Regt (109 points) and 1 Somerset and Cornwall Light Infantry (272 points).

Althea Gibson will compete in first Open tennis tournament

New York, Mar. 7.
Althea Gibson, former Wimbledon champion, said here today that she intended to play in the first Open lawn tennis tournament, wherever it is held.

Dave Power wins Australian three-mile event

Perth, Mar. 7.
Albert Thomas, the world record holder, finished a poor last of four runners in the three miles at the Australian men's athletics championships here today.

Dave Power, the British Empire Games six miles and marathon champion, won in 13 minutes 50.4 seconds.

Thomas, who on Saturday finished second to Herb Elliott in the mile event, was never a threat to Power, whose time was well outside the Australian record.

Elliott today won the 800 yards in one minute 50.1 seconds.

A strong breeze marred chances of records during the day.—Reuter.

COLIN COWDREY JOINS MCC'S SICK-LIST—BUT WILL BE FIT FOR TEST

Georgetown, Mar. 7.
Colin Cowdrey became the latest MCC victim of poor health today when it was found he had developed a heavy cold and was unable to practise with the rest of the side.

Cowdrey stayed in his hotel room but will almost certainly be fit to lead England in the fourth Test here on Wednesday.

Ken Barrington's asthmatic bronchitis was better this morning and he was expected to leave the nursing home during the day and get the strength back into his legs.

Freddie Trueman, the tourists' third "equality," reported that his back trouble was clearing.

Jim Parks, the Sussex wicket-keeper-batsman, who was sent for from Trinidad as an emergency replacement during the weekend, joined the rest of the team at net practice.

In good form
Barrington went straight from the nursing home to the nets. He was still feeling a little weak, but it seemed likely he would be fit for the Test.

Trueman had further treatment to his back and did not practise.

Parks showed at the nets that he is in good form. He was given some practice against batters by Brian Statham.

The West Indies also have worries over the fitness of players. Sonny Ramadhin, the little spin bowler, developed shoulder trouble over the weekend, Frank Worrell's ankle is still uncertain and pace bowler Wes Hall is having daily hospital treatment for blistered feet. Hall, however, is reported as almost certain to play in the Test.

West Indies team
It was announced tonight that the West Indies team will be from: F. C. M. Alexander (Captain), L. Gibbs, W. Hall, C. C. Hunt, R. Kanhai, E. Morris, K. T. Ramadhin, C. Singh, G. Sobers, C. Walcott, C. Watson, F. Worrell.—China Mail Special.

COLONY—AUSTRALIAN TRADE

Urgent need for representation

Dr S. N. Chau, leader of Hongkong delegation to International Congress of Scientific Management said on his return today Hongkong should open trade offices in Australia as soon as possible.

Dr Chau said this was because Australia was now lifting import restrictions and there would be a strong competition from other countries.

Before his departure, he said, he had discussions with officials of the DC and I on this question and added that he had now found out that it was imperative that Hongkong should have an office or send trade delegations to Australia.

Dr Chau also said other countries have started sending trade delegations and opening trade centres. He named Japan as one country which was promoting trade with Australia in a big way.

Competitive

In reply to question, Dr Chau said that he does not see why Hongkong could not be competitive with Japan in Australia as "we have done it before."

There was a certain lack of information about Hongkong in Australia in general and particularly in Hongkong industry, he said.

Dr Chau will attend the Hongkong Trade Industry Advisory Board on Monday and will make a full report and give his recommendation on opening a trade office in Australia.

The Congress was attended by over 2,000 people from about 30 countries. Seventeen different subjects were studied and papers were presented by prominent people from several nations. They covered a very wide field and apart from management in industry, they touched also management in government, trading and research development.

New approaches

Dr Chau said Lord Baillet, who opened the Congress, spoke of the need for industry to develop skills in handling government regulations and new approaches to labour, particularly the understanding of the humanist approach.

A series of papers entitled "Management Problems of Small Business" and "Developing a National Pattern for the Education and Training of Managers" were of particular interest to the Colony.

Dr Chau outlined the need to formulate a short-term programme, designed to stimulate interest in management training; a medium-term programme to establish and publicise training schemes for top management, subordinate and other executives; and a long-term programme for management training in varying types of schools for lower income brackets.

Sympathy

Dr Chau emphasised that Hongkong should join CIOS and subsequently ITCCOS.

Dr Chau concluded by saying that there was generally in Australia a feeling of support for the Colony and a great feeling of sympathy for Hongkong and its problems.

Prominent UK industrialist to visit Colony

The Earl of Verulam, Chairman of the British Institute of Management, will visit Hongkong.

Lord Verulam has just visited Australia where he led the British delegation to the International Congress of Scientific Management.

He will arrive on Saturday for a short stay and will leave a few days later for Peking returning to the Colony on March 23 for a stay of about a week.

He will speak at a Jaycee luncheon on Thursday, March 24.

As well as an international authority on business management, Lord Verulam is a leading British industrialist. He is Chairman of Enfield Bolting Mills Ltd., Engineering and Lighting Equipment Co. Ltd., Sterns Ltd., and a director of several other companies. He is also President of the Central Council for Health Education, St. Mary's Medical School and the International Baby Welfare Council.

Only answer

I fully endorse all that 'Visitor' writes. Deplorable as it may seem, brothels are the one and only answer to this state of affairs.

You can preach and prate about it for ever but you won't stop it. I move about the colony a lot and what makes me see red in the way pimps and bars get away with their profiteering out of prostitute's earnings immediately any country in the world abolishes brothels, the pimps and rotters begin to cash in.

My contention is that if prostitution was confined to brothels, the girls could have some protection against the thugs who demand 'protection' money. Which if not paid can result in a girl being beaten up or her face slashed.

Don't tell me this doesn't happen in Hongkong. The 'do-gooders' will no doubt be horrified at the idea of brothels but let me explain. In a brothel, the kind folk who are truly interested in 'the fallen' can ensure that any girl who wishes to leave can do so and can be helped to find other employment.

At present there are girls who never stand a chance of getting out of the clutches of 'Madams' for fear of severe reprisals. Let there be brothels by all means and clamp down on all illegal prostitution and all who batten on it. Let the penalty be prison without the option of a fine. Let us have less hypocrisy on this subject and face the facts.

I read last week that yet another MP in the UK talks about cleaning up Hongkong. I wish they would look after their own Aegean states. Anybody that knows London, knows it is a hundred times worse than HK. "MAN ABOUT TOWN".

NOW CHEONGSAMS INVADE WORLD FASHION HOUSES

Modified versions of Hongkong's famous cheongsams will be on sale at world's leading fashion houses this year, a prominent dress designer said today.

He is Mr Arnold Vincent of London who passed through Hongkong by PAA on his way to America.

Mr Vincent who has designed a number of dresses for Vivien Leigh and film actress Dawn Addams is among London's top fashion men. He said that modified cheongsams have been designed several times before.

"However they never really

Magistrate hits out at pimps and Hongkong's flashy young men

A Magistrate said this morning that in the squalid alleys of Hongkong and sometimes in the main streets were found flashy young men, pimps and gamblers, glossy and furtive "fences" who bought and sold stolen goods and openly encouraged prostitution.

Mr I. T. Morris, Central Magistrate, said this when he dismissed an application for review of sentence which he had passed on a man for loitering.

"Men of this type," Mr Morris added, "of which I believe the applicant is one, should be hunted, hounded and harassed off the streets because in the trail of such men come the foolish, the weak, the greedy and the evil."

The applicant, Cheng Yau-kwong, 30, appealed to the court to reduce his three-month sentence and to give him an opportunity of paying a fine instead of a prison sentence on the ground that the sentence passed was too severe.

Can't increase it

Continuing his judgment, Mr Morris said:

"I have already given Cheng the maximum sentence which the law permits and unfortunately I cannot increase it. This man has an appalling record. He has 21 previous convictions for similar offences and the sentence already passed on him is unfortunately of little more than academic interest.

"I have no hesitation in dismissing this application," Mr Morris added.

Police alleged that on February 27, a plainclothes policeman was on duty in Gloucester Road when he saw the man twice approach American sailors and offer them cards.

The sailors refused to accept the cards and pushed him aside. A policeman had warned Cheng not to pester people after the man had accused the first sailor.

Book display

A book fair, in which 10,000 books will be displayed, will open on March 20 at the Star Ferry Terminal, Hongkong.

Mr D. J. B. Crozier, Director of Education, will open the fair which is being arranged by Donald Moore Ltd, publishers representatives.

Inspector did not expect to find accused

A police inspector testifying in the goldsmith shop robbery case in the Criminal Session this morning said when he went to an address in Battery Street some three months after the robbery, he did not expect to find the accused, Li Ping, there.

"We were in fact making inquiries into another matter, a very serious one. We were looking for an escaped prisoner," Det. Insp. Chan Kiu-wan, said.

Insp. Chan made the statement when he was examined in connection with a cautioned statement he had taken from Li Ping.

Mr Oswald Cheung, representing Li, objected to the admission on the statement on the ground that it was not a voluntary statement. At Mr Cheung's request, the jury was present when Insp. Chan was questioned on the statement.

Denial

Li Ping, 32, denied he had robbed the Lal Fung Goldsmith shop, in Lai-chikok Road, of gold ornaments worth $50,000 on June 30 last.

Insp. Chan gave evidence that on September 24, he and a party of police went to 15 Battery Street, third floor. The accused was present and was told that the police were making inquiries into a series of robberies.

Li said he would speak to him in the police station, witness said.

Witness said he then questioned the accused in connection with another matter, and during the course of the questioning, he cautioned the accused concerning the present robbery and the accused made a statement.

Sweden plans boycott

Stockholm, Mar. 7. Swedish trade unions will ask consumers to boycott South African goods for two months from April, Mr Arne Geller, President of the Swedish TUC, announced today.

Similar action is planned by trade unions in Norway, Finland and Denmark and a boycott is already underway in Britain. The boycott has been recommended by the International Confederation of Free Trade Union as a protest against apartheid.—Reuter.
